Orchid Magic

74TH SANTA BARBARA
INTERNATIONAL
ORCHID SHOW

Display Magic

Step into the magic of the famed Santa Barbara International Orchid Show and be transported to a world of enchantment. Enjoy orchid floral arrangements and orchid art and photography, or watch a demonstration on orchid repotting. Let yourself be tempted by gorgeous orchids and orchid-related items for sale in the Vendor Hall.

At the heart of the Show are the exceptional displays from local, regional and international exhibitors, transforming expertly grown plants into a magical wonderland of orchid flowers. Our knowledgeable judges select recipients for trophies and awards, but the Show proudly recognizes the incomparable artistic displays of all of our outstanding exhibitors.

Sweepstakes "Best Display"

Honoring Bert Kallman

Overall most beautiful display combining quality of design, artistic merit and quality of plant material, featuring orchids as focal points.

Sweepstakes "Best Display"

Honoring Fred A. Stewart

Non-commercial display combining beauty, quality of design, artistic merit and plant material, with predominantly orchid plants and flowers.

Design of Distinction

Honoring Mercedes Flynn

Display with most outstanding design elements with orchids as a predominant part of the display.

Most Artistic Display

Honoring Ethel & Buzz Seeburg

Display with unusual creativity and most artistic use of floral (orchid) material.

Best Theme

Honoring Eliot F. Haberlitz

Display best representing the theme of the Show.

Best Educational/Scientific Display

Honoring John A. Parma

Best representation of educational or scientific material pertaining to orchids or orchid culture; display is not required to have live plant material.

Best Foreign Exhibit

Best combination of design and plant material by a foreign exhibitor. Plant material may be potted or cut-flower. Award acknowledges difficulty in importing display plants and materials from a foreign country.

Best Amateur Display less than 25 sq. ft.

Honoring Harvey Bean

Recognizes small amateur display; garden themes encouraged.

Best Display 25 to 100 sq. ft.

Honoring Harry B. Ireland

Recognizes exceptional, mid-size commercial display.

Best Display over 100 sq. ft.

Honoring Francis B. Cobb

Recognizes exceptional, large commercial display.

Additional awards recognize other display sizes and categories. Look for the trophies as you visit the Show, or pick your own favorite displays!

Top Orchid Growing Tips

1 Match your orchid with the proper growing area.

Growing outdoors in coastal California? Cymbidiums are tough, rewarding orchids tolerant of a wide variety of temperatures. Want a plant for indoors? Try a phalaenopsis or a paphiopedilum (lady's slipper), many of which enjoy the same household temperatures as people do.

2 Don't let your plant sit in water. Many orchids succumb to too much love in the form of overwatering. Let your plant drain freely, then dry out a bit between waterings. Once a week is a good starting point; water more often in hot weather, or less often if the potting mix stays wet.

3 Filtered light is best. Few orchids do well in direct sun or heavy shade. Outdoor-grown orchids can be happy in dappled shade under trees or beneath shade cloth—at least

55% for cymbidiums or more for most other orchids. Indoor orchids need light, but not direct sun. Be sure your plant is protected at different times of day, not just when the sun is directly overhead.

4 Repot when the mix breaks down or the plant outgrows the pot.

Remove dead, mushy roots and old mix, then use a clean pot and orchid potting mix, available at many plant nurseries and home centers. Don't use regular potting soil, and don't overpot; leave only enough room for a couple years of growth.

5 Buy plants from a reputable grower.

Nurseries specializing in orchids not only have more unusual plants than the local grocery store, but their staff can offer expert growing advice and suggest plants to match your conditions and temperature constraints.

6 Join an orchid society. An orchid society is a fun, social way to learn more about growing orchids!

THE 39TH ANNUAL
SANTA BARBARA ORCHID ESTATE
 SUMMER OPEN HOUSE & SALE
 July 12-14, 2019

The Exotic Beauties of Summer. Many of our most showy and fragrant orchids will be in flower and bud - most for outdoor growing. The large flowered Cattleyas (Laelias) of Brazil, the Stanhopeas and Encyclias of Central and South America, and many other genera, all make summer just as beautiful as spring - but more fragrant. Also, potting and mounting demonstrations, refreshments and our $7.50 specials.
